

Reducing the number of independent news organizations in a community also reduces the number of opinions available to the public. No market, no matter what its size, can benefit from having fewer choices and less competition in news coverage.

I oppose all attempts to further reduce our media options through consolidation and ownership of media outlets by entities that are located outside of our immediate area.